

We spent 10 hours bouncing along back roads of the Yucatan with Javier and Edwin. The town where we held the Christian Teachers' conference is the Mayan center of the Peninsula. The narrow road to Ticul was edged by rock walls, each stone carefully placed according to shape, making mortar unnecessary.

We trained over 100 teachers in how to teach sound doctrine to young minds. When I glanced outside the church door I noticed most had come to the conference on motor scooters, the transportation of choice in this provincial region.

At a campground outside Ticul, we taught these youth how to defend the faith using Creation, Conscience and Christ from Romans One. Most have never slept in a bed. Why use a bed, when you have a hammock?

Praise is the rehearsal of our eternal song.

C.H. Spurgeon

We can't adequately describe all that God is doing south of the border.

May these smiling faces remind you of the vital role you play in sending us their way!
